THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

The Democracy of Allen county have reason to congratulate themselves on the strong ticket they nominsted last Monday, as well as on the harmony and good feeling which prevails throughout the party There was a marked absence of acrimony in the primary campaign which has just closed, and the enthusiastic convention of Tuesday demonstrated that the party it better fighting trim than it has been for several years. WILLIAM RUSLER.

The party's nominee for Representative, is one of the brightest farmers member who stood higher in the es timation of his colleagues than he. Although a member of that wing of is in a hopeless minority, he was one of the most influential members of that body, and his vote stands recorded in favor of those measures to be adverse to their welfare.

the candidate for Sheriff, is another strong nominee. He also stands for ra-election. He was elected two years ago, and no man in the history of Allen county has ever filled the office of Sheriff more acceptably of efficiently than he. He is genial, capable, obligity, and is just the sort of a man needed for the important office for Sheriff. There is one thing about these drain pipe chimneys that al ways surprises me very much, and that could understand this. I suppose the pipe is usually set up with cement or mortar in the joints, but I should think those upturned flanges would catch all the rain, and that it would work down stack 'em up with the smooth end at the Troliope and Whist.

Trollope was attracted, in the first instance, by the genial society, but con-tinued to resort there from pure love of the game itself, and, though, as he tells us, he often felt inclined "to swear ns, he often felt inclined to swear off." like Rip Van Winkle, the habit

Blotches on the Skin

Blackheads, or comedo, as it is called, is an ordinary complaint, spoiling many a pretty girl's complexion to a serious extent. They signify a disorder of the sweat glands and indicate, almost invariably, general debility. The first thing to do is to clear the system, sharpen the plenty of white castile soap. A lotion containing equal parts of sulphur, glycerine, carbonate of putash and alcohol is a valuable remedy.

Have You Had the Grip ? If you have, you probably need A LEARNED LADY.

The champions of academic chivalry who, after the long and weary struggle, succeeded in winning for the ladies the succeeded in winning for the indies the right of equality in the examinations for the London university degrees have had their contentions more than justi-fied by the result. Up to the present there has been no female doctor of liter-ature, but that is no great wonder, for within a very few years only two of the other sex—Dr. Weymouth, formerly of Mill Hill school, and Dr. F. Stock—had achieved the distinction. This year, however, for the first time, a lady's name is added to the scanty roll, Miss Elizabeth A. S. Dawes having just been passed for the degree by the examiners. time, and other members of the family She had been chiefly taught by her father, the Rev. J. S. Dawes, D. D., a well known schoolmaster at Surbiton, and not many years since the president of the Association of Private Schoolmasit and one of my neighbors has commenced ters. Her natural capacity was quite re-markable, and under her father's teach-ing she obtained, in 1881, the first place in the open classical scholarship exami-nation at Girton college—which may perhaps rank among schoolgirls protty much the same as the Balliol scholar-ship among their brothers at the public schools. The college authorities decided she was too young for the scholarship— she was then not 18—but the next year she was elected to Lady Stanley's scholarship and commenced residence at Girton in October. During her three years and in 1885 she was placed-we may not yet say graduated—in the second class of the classical tripos. Meanwhile she had been passing the examination of London university. In 1832 she was placed in the first division of the intermediate, with the prize for German, and in 1885 she passed the full B. A. with hopors in Greek and Latin. Two years later she was fifth on the list of M. A.'s in the classical branch of the oxamination, and in 1889 she passed first in mediaeval and modern French and German in order to qualify for the dogree of elector of literature, which she has just attained.

On my asking her something as to how she had achieved her success she modestly disclaimed, as do all beroines (and heroes, too), having anything at all to toll. She placed in my hand a bulky pamphlet of some 100 pages on "The Pronunciation of the Greek Aspirates," which was, she said, the dissertation which had been accepted by the examinors. It was, she foured, very little more than a compilation from the ties, and she had only been able to work at it during odd times in the intervals of the regular work of her school. The examiners had as was their usual custom, examined her further upon the subject and had kindly taken care to question her on points which she had not dwelt upon in the dissertation itself. On my avking her why she had chosen such a subject she said she hardly know, unless she had some acquaintance with modern Greek, having spent several months a few years since in Greece studying the language. - Loudon Queen. was very auxious that his grandson

The Sansage Machine.

The Chicago girl had been unusually manifest. She had told them all about the Auditorium—not mentioning its external dirtiness-and the waterworks building, which Oscar Wilde describes as looking like a choice collection of pepper pots, and she had unively and sually referred to one World's fair When the New York girl said some-thing about a municipality upon the island of Manhattan, the Chicagoan as sumed a blank expression and remark-ed: "Oh, yes, I remember; we had to pass through it on our way to Europe.'

Then sha began to boast of one of Chi cage's proudest works of art, not wholly is there belonging to Chicago that is permitted to remain unknown? It was a sansage machine of some sort, and it was remarkable for its celerity. "Why you put the live pig in at the top," bragged the Chicago girl, "and in loss than ten minutes the loveliest link sansages that you ever saw come dropping out below.

Even the placid soul of the Philadelphia maiden was stirred at this. "In-deed," she said calmly, "Well, our quiet Quaker City methods go shead of that. We have a machine in Philadelphia where you put the loveliest link sausages that you ever saw in at the top,

The Most Disputed Incident of "Trilby" Supported by Fact.

Among the many items apropos o Du Maurier's masterpiece not the least peresting is the closeness with which interesting is the closeness with which he stuck to the facts. One's first impression upon reading how Svengali taught Trilby to sing—how he hypnotized her and commanded her to imitate the sounds he made on his flexible flageole was no doubt that this at least was a flight of poetic license. It seems, however, to be well within the possibilities. A case which in all essentials covers it was reported as long ago as 1850 by James Braid, the first of the successors of Mosmer to approach the hypnotic sleep from the side of science rather than of charlatanism. Afterspeaking of the heightened sense of hearing under mesmerism and of the increase of muscular precision, they make, be says, feats of phonic imitation" possible which are truly astonishing.

"Many patients will thus repeat ac-pretale what is spoken in any language. and they may be also able to sing cor-rectly and simultaneously both words and music of songs in any language which they had never heard before i. e., they catch the words as well as music so instantaneously as to accom-pany the other singer as if both had been previously equally familiar with both words and music. "In this manner a patient of mine who, when awake, knew not the grammar of even her own language, and who had very little knowledge of music, was enabled to follow Mile. Jenny Lind correctly in songs in differ ent languages, giving both words and music so correctly and so simultaneouswith Jenny Lind that two parties in the room could not for some time inagino that there were two voices, so perfectly did they accord, both in music-al tone and vocal pronunciation of Swiss, German and Italian songs. She was equally successful in accompanying Mile. Lind in one of her extemporane ous effusions, which was long and ex-tremely difficult, an elaborate chromatic exercise, which the celebrated cantatrice tried by way of taxing the powers of the somnambulist to the ntmost. When awake, the girl durst not even attempt to do anything of the sort, and, after all, wenderful as it was it was only phonic imitation, for she did not understand the meaning of a single word of the foreign language which she netered so correctly.''

This is exactly Trilby's case, only more so, except that there is nothing to indicate in the report that "the patient" remembered Jenny Lind's songs and could reproduce them, but the formation of a trance state memory is a sufficiently frequent phenomenon. The quotation is from Braid's "Observations on Trance," page 43.—New York Post.

REVERSED BY A COLLISION.

An Old Brakeman Tells of a Queer Railroad Accident He Witnessed. "The most remarkable wreck I was poned on the Short Line netween Pewee and Beard's some years ago. It was a freight wreck. I had charge of the La Grange accommodation and was bound in to Louisville We were following bard upon the trail of train No. 32, also bound for Louisville Train No. 14 was oming in our direction. It had been delayed some minutes at Pewse, but ex pected to make up the time and side track botween Powee and Beard's on schedule time, so that train No. 82 would have the right of way

"The delay was what caused the trouble Thosade track I am telling you bout was just behind and under a hill Train No 14 had just backed on to the side track, and before the switchman could shift the switch train No 82 came dashing around the hill. The engineer saw the danger. He turned down the throttle with a hard shove and whis-tled 'down brakes.' His efforts were of no use, however Train No. 82 turned in on the side track and went crashing

"When the two trains struck, the en gineer of 14 had his hand on the throt tle about to stop his train. The shock threw him out of the ab and the wrench threw open the throttle again and reversed the engine. STRAWBERRY CULTURE. > 5at Plants In Field and Garde

The Hest Variation Strawberries will succeed in any soil that is adapted to ordinary farm or garden crops, though preference is given in favor of the leanity or light soils. The ground ought to be well prepared, drained and enriched. A usual plan in field culture is to set in rows 8 or 8 % feet apart, 15 to 18 inches in rows, for garden culture 15 inches apart way, Is aving a pathway every third row To produce fine fruit, keep in hills, pinching runners off as soon as they ap pear Ground should always be kept lean and well cultivated.

THE FIRST GUN OF THE SEASON!

We open up the spring campaign with an irresistible rush of invincible values in Men's Spring Overcoats that will sweep the combined forces of competition from the field and leave us masters of the season's business.

In the nerve to give the people exceptional ains we hold the key to the situation—in the ability and integrity to do exactly as we advertise, we hold the whip over the heads of those who habitually humbug the people, whether by an insane affectation of eminent respectability, or by boisterous boasting of imaginary bargains.

HERE'S THE WAY WE DO
